

Disciplinary and Other NASD Actions

REPORTED FOR FEBRUARY

NASD® has taken disciplinary actions against the following firms and individuals for violations of NASD rules; federal securities laws, rules, and regulations; and the rules of the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board (MSRB). The information relating to matters contained in this notice is current as of the end of January 2005.

Firms Expelled, Individuals Sanctioned

Castle Securities Corp. (CRD #16077, Freeport, New York) and Michael Thomas Studer (CRD #707394, Registered Principal, Amityville, New York) The firm was expelled from NASD membership and Studer was barred from NASD membership in any capacity. The firm was fined $98,300, solely, and fined $37,500, jointly and severally with Studer. The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) affirmed the National Adjudicatory Council (NAC) decision imposing sanctions following appeal of an Office of Hearing Officers (OHO) decision. The sanctions were based on findings that the firm churned the account of a public customer, and that Studer and the firm failed to reasonably supervise trading in the account of a public customer by ignoring "red flags" that indicated potential problems with the account. The findings also stated that the firm and Studer induced a public customer to execute margin guarantees that benefited the firm and exposed the customer to significant risk. (NASD Case #C3A010036)

Harrison Securities, Inc. (CRD #14103, Port Washington, New York), Frederick Clark Blumer (CRD #1574325, Registered Principal, Merrick, New York), and Raymond Alan Leventhal (CRD #3120615, Registered Principal, Great Neck, New York) submitted Letters of Acceptance, Waiver, and Consent in which the firm was expelled from NASD membership. Blumer was barred from association with any NASD member firm in any capacity, and Leventhal was fined $40,000, suspended from association with any NASD member firm in any principal or supervisory capacity for one year, and required to requalify as a registered principal (Series 24). The fine must be paid before Leventhal reassociates with any NASD member following the suspension or before requesting relief from any statutory disqualification.

Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm, Blumer, and Leventhal consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that the firm, acting through Blumer and Leventhal, failed to establish and maintain a system to supervise the activities of each registered representative and associated person reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws, regulations, and NASD rules, and failed to develop an adequate supervisory system for review of customer accounts to detect and prevent excessive trading or churning. The findings also stated that Blumer and Leventhal failed to develop an adequate supervisory system for review of customer accounts to detect and prevent excessive trading or churning, and failed to respond to "red flags" indicating that excessive trading or churning was occurring in the customer accounts of certain registered representatives, including excessive account activity, excessive commissions earned, and customer complaints.

NASD also found that the firm and Blumer permitted advertisements and sales literature to be disseminated to the investing public that contained material misstatements and omissions and contravened NASD's rules relating to communications with the public. The findings also stated that the firm and Blumer permitted individuals to maintain registrations with NASD through the firm while the individuals were not actively engaged, or to be engaged, in the investment banking business or securities business of the firm. NASD also found that the firm and Leventhal failed to enforce the firm's written supervisory procedures (WSPs) related to options transactions by failing to conduct, and memorialize, periodic reviews of options activities in customer accounts. The findings also included findings that the firm, acting through Leventhal, failed to report, and to report timely customer complaints in violation of NASD Conduct Rule 3070. Moreover, NASD found that the firm and Leventhal failed to enforce the firm's WSPs related to compliance with NASD Conduct Rule 3050 dealing with transactions for or by associated persons, and failed to establish and maintain adequate procedures to ensure compliance with NASD Rule 2711 dealing with research analyst and research reports.

The firm, acting through Blumer and Leventhal, failed to timely amend registered representatives' Forms U4 (Uniform Applications for Securities Industry Registration or Transfer) or Forms U5 (Uniform Termination Notices for Securities Industry Registration) and the firm's Form BD (Uniform Application for Broker-Dealer Registration) to disclose reportable events. In addition, NASD determined that the firm, Blumer, and Leventhal failed to register properly the firm's office of supervisory jurisdiction (OSJ) with NASD, and the firm and Blumer failed to conduct an annual inspection of the firm's businesses and supervisory systems, including a periodic examination of customer accounts to detect and prevent irregularities or abuses, an annual inspection of each OSJ, and the maintenance of a written record of each such review and inspection. Furthermore, NASD found that the firm operated without a properly registered financial and operations principal (FINOP); failed to establish and maintain an adequate anti-money laundering (AML) compliance program; failed to file an application, pursuant to NASD Membership and Registration Rule 1017, for approval of a change in ownership, control, or business operations upon the direct or indirect acquisition of substantially all of the firm's assets by another member firm; and failed to make or keep current its arbitration, correspondence, and financial books and records, or to preserve such records, in a readily accessible place.

The findings also stated that the firm, acting through Blumer, failed to comply with SEC Rule 17a-5(a)(2)(iii), in that the firm failed to file its quarterly FOCUS report and, acting through Leventhal, permitted a registered representative to continue to conduct a securities business while his registration was inactive due to his failure to complete the Regulatory Element of the Continuing Education Requirement. In addition, NASD found that Blumer failed to respond to NASD requests for information and or documents.

Leventhal's suspension began February 7, 2005, and will conclude at the close of business February 6, 2006. (NASD Cases #CLI040039, CLI040040, CLI040042)

Hyde-Laudano was also suspended from association with any NASD member in all supervisory capacities for 60 days. Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm and Hyde-Laudano consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that they closed escrow prior to meeting the minimum contingency for a private placement. NASD also found that the firm should not have counted the affiliated investment towards the minimum necessary to meet the contingency. The findings also stated that the firm and Hyde-Laudano failed to comply with the firm's membership agreement by not obtaining the required report from a securities lawyer within 30 days following the close of each offering discussing the firm's conformance with relevant regulations including any findings of non-compliance. NASD found that the firm and Hyde-Laudano did obtain a report for its next offering to close, though the report was late and did not contain the complete analysis required by the restriction. Moreover, NASD found that the firm and Hyde-Laudano permitted non-registered persons to engage in activities requiring registration and to receive transaction-based compensation.

Hyde-Laudano's suspension began February 7, 2005, and will conclude at the close of business April 7, 2005. (NASD Case #C3A050002)

$10,000, suspended from association with any NASD member in a FINOP capacity, and required to requalify as a FINOP by passing the Series 27 exam prior to acting again in that capacity with a member firm. The fine must be paid before Goldsmith reassociates with any NASD member following the suspension or before requesting relief from any statutory disqualification. Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm and Goldsmith consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that the firm, acting through Goldsmith, failed to accrue virtually all of its liabilities and to record such liabilities in its financial statements. The findings also stated that the firm, acting through Goldsmith, utilized the instrumentalities of interstate commerce to conduct a securities business while failing to maintain the minimum required net capital. NASD also found that the firm, acting through Goldsmith, prepared financial statements and filed periodic reports with the SEC and NASD that contained misstatements.

Goldsmith's suspension began February 7, 2005, and will conclude at the close of business June 6, 2005. (NASD Case #C9B040110)

Arlt was also suspended from association with any NASD member in all principal capacities for 30 business days. Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm and Arlt consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that they failed to establish, maintain, and enforce an adequate supervisory system reasonably designed to achieve compliance with industry rules and regulations regarding sales of private placements, Form U4 updates, and customer complaint reporting. The findings also stated that the firm and Arlt failed to supervise a representative of the firm by allowing him to conduct business without being properly registered in two states, failed to monitor reasonably the progress of a criminal case against the representative to ensure his Form U4 was properly amended and a Rule 3070 report was filed timely upon his guilty plea to fraud charges, and failed to ensure that the firm did not associate itself with a statutorily disqualified person.

Tonner was also suspended from association with any NASD member in any principal or supervisory capacity for 10 business days. The firm was also required to retain an independent outside consultant to conduct a review of, prepare a written report, and make recommendations as to the adequacy of the firm's supervisory and compliance policies and procedures and its system for applying and enforcing such policies and procedures. Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that the firm, acting through Tonner, failed to maintain a supervisory system, including written supervisory procedures, internal operating procedures, and compliance procedures, reasonably designed to prevent and detect violations of federal securities laws, rules, regulations, and NASD rules.

The findings also stated that the firm failed to maintain a copy of its written supervisory procedures on site at the firm, and that the firm's procedures were not specifically tailored to its business activities and did not address how the firm's activities would be supervised, including the type of supervisory reviews to be performed and who would perform such reviews. NASD also found that the firm had no procedures for the review of incoming and outgoing correspondence and failed to maintain copies of any correspondence to or from customers. In addition, NASD found that the firm failed to ensure that all of its registered personnel attended its annual compliance meeting. Moreover, the firm failed to develop and implement a written AML program reasonably designed to achieve and monitor compliance with the requirements of the Bank Secrecy Act and the implementing regulations promulgated thereunder by the Department of Treasury.

Ficeto was also suspended from association with any NASD member in all supervisory capacities for 15 business days. The NAC imposed the sanctions following appeal of an OHO decision. The sanctions were based on findings that the firm and Ficeto failed to supervise reasonably a registered representative who engaged in excessive and unsuitable trading in the accounts of public customers.

Ficeto's suspension will begin February 22, 2005, and will conclude at the close of business March 14, 2005. (NASD Case #C02020055)

National Securities Corporation (CRD #7569, Seattle, Washington) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver, and Consent in which the firm was censured, fined $32,500, and required to revise its written supervisory procedures to address SEC Rules 11Ac1-5 and 11Ac1-6, anti-intimidation and coordination, trade reporting of riskless principal trades, OATS accuracy and timeliness, and books and records requirements. Without admitting or denying the allegations, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it failed to display immediately customer limit orders in NASDAQ securities in its public quotation, when each such order was at a price that would have improved the firm's bids or offer in each such security; or when the order was priced equal to the firm's bid or offer and the national best bid offer for each such security, and the size of the order represented more than a de minimis change in relation to the size associated with the firm's bid offer in each security. The findings also stated that the firm failed to submit, for the offsetting, "riskless" portion of "riskless principal" transactions in NASDAQ National Market® (NNM®) securities, either a clearing-only report with a capacity indicator of "riskless principal," or a non-tape, non-clearing report with a capacity indicator of "riskless principal." The findings also stated that the firm failed to submit a last sale report for the initial leg of a "riskless principal" transaction in an NNM security and failed to submit, for the offsetting "riskless" portion of "riskless" principal transactions in OTC equity securities, either a clearing-only report with a capacity indicator of "riskless principal," or a non-tape, non-clearing report with a capacity indicator of "riskless principal."

The findings also stated that the firm executed customer limit orders at prices inferior to the customers' limit order price, and failed to contemporaneously or partially execute the customer limit orders in NASDAQ securities after it traded each subject security for its own market-making account at a price that would have satisfied each customer's limit order and failed to execute orders fully and promptly. NASD found that the firm failed to report to ACT the correct symbol indicating whether the transaction was a buy, sell, sell short exempt, or cross for transactions in eligible securities. The firm made available a report that included incorrect information by including a "not held" order as a covered order and classifying an order as an inside quote limit order instead of marketable limit order. The firm's supervisory system did not provide for supervision reasonably designed to achieve compliance with SEC Rules 11Ac1-5 and 11Ac1-6, anti-intimidation and coordination, trade reporting of riskless principal trades, OATS accuracy and timeliness, and books and records requirements. (NASD Case #CMS040221)

NASD found that the firm's failure to file amendments to Forms U4 and U5 in a timely manner may have impeded the investing public's ability to assess the background of certain brokers through NASD's public disclosure program (NASD BrokerCheck), may have potentially denied member firms access to relevant information in making hiring determinations, may have enabled some brokers to transfer firms without having their application reviewed by the appropriate state securities regulator, and may have hindered NASD from promptly investigating certain disclosure items. (NASD Case #CLI040036)

Preferred Trade, Inc. f/k/a Preferred Capital Markets, Inc. (CRD #10993, San Francisco, California) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver, and Consent in which the firm was censured, fined $20,000, and required to revise its written supervisory procedures with respect to trade reporting. The findings also stated that the firm incorrectly designated ".T" through ACT last sale reports of transactions in NNM securities executed during normal market hours. NASD found that the firm also incorrectly designated as “SLD” through ACT last sale reports of transactions in CQS securities reported to ACT within 90 seconds of execution. The complaint also alleges that Graves recommended and effected a transaction in the account of a public customer without having reasonable grounds for believing that his recommendation, and the resulting purchase by the customer, was suitable based upon the customer's financial situation and needs. The complaint further alleges that Graves engaged in an outside business activity and failed to provide his member firm with written notice of his activity. In addition, the complaint alleges that Graves obtained a $52,000 loan from a public customer in violation of firm policy prohibiting the receipt or solicitation of loans from public customers. (NASD Case #C06050002)

The complaint also alleges that Passarella, directly or indirectly, by the use of the means or instrumentalities of interstate commerce or of the mails, knowingly or recklessly, used or employed, in connection with the purchase or sale of securities, manipulative or deceptive devices or contrivances; and knowingly or recklessly effected transactions in, or induced the purchase or sale of, securities by means of manipulative, deceptive, or other fraudulent devices or contrivances. The complaint further alleges that Passarella recommended transactions in securities without having reasonable grounds for believing such transactions were suitable in light of the size and frequency of the transactions, the nature of the account, and the customers' financial situation and needs. In addition, the complaint alleges that Passarella effected transactions in the accounts of public customers without the prior knowledge, authorization, or consent of the customers. (NASD Case #C9B040106)

Stephen Michael Rhoads, Sr. (CRD #3265781, Registered Representative, Wyckoff, New Jersey) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he received checks totaling $3,677.42 from a public customer for investment purposes, deposited the checks into his own personal account, and personally paid for the initial premium for the customer's disability policy by sending a cashier's check to new business drawn on his personal account. The complaint also alleges that Rhodes set up a pre-authorization check premium payment service (PAC) where automatic monthly withdrawals would be made to pay the remaining premiums for the customer's policy from his personal account without the customer's knowledge, authorization, or consent. The complaint further alleges that because the PAC had insufficient funds, the disability policy lapsed due to non-payment. In addition, the complaint alleges that Rhoads failed to respond to NASD requests to provide information and documents. (NASD Case #C10040116)

Sonja Rudd (CRD #2683330, Registered Representative, Pembroke Pines, Florida) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that she circulated false and misleading investment opinions and research reports that included fraudulent and deceptive representations and omissions of material facts about speculative, low-priced securities she covered. The complaint also alleges that Rudd's investment opinions were not based on principles of fair dealing and good faith, were not fair and balanced, and did not provide a sound basis for evaluating the facts in regard to any particular security or type of security, industry, or service.

The complaint also alleges that Rudd omitted material facts or qualifications that, in light of the context of the material presented, caused the communications to be misleading; and published, circulated, or distributed public communications, or caused such public communications to be published, circulated, or distributed, that she knew, or had reason to know, contained untrue statements of material fact or were otherwise false or misleading. The complaint further alleges that Rudd's statements predicted or projected performance, implied that past performance would recur, or made exaggerated or unwarranted claims, opinions, or forecasts. In addition, the complaint alleges that Rudd's investment opinions or research reports contained only favorable research, opinions, or news about the companies covered, and directly or indirectly offered the favorable research reports as consideration or inducement for the receipt of business or compensation by her. The complaint also alleges that Rudd failed to provide prompt written notice to her member firm, in the form required by the firm, that she was working for and being compensated by another company. (NASD Case #CMS040224)

Hilary L. Shane (CRD #3210308, Registered Representative, New York, New York) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that she falsely represented that she and her member firm were buying shares of stock in a private placement and had no intention of distributing the shares, inducing the issuer to agree to sell shares to them. The complaint also alleges that Shane, directly or indirectly, by use of means or instrumentalities of interstate commerce, intentionally or recklessly employed a device, scheme, or artifice to defraud; made untrue statements of fact; and engaged in an act, practice, or course of business that operated, or would operate, as a fraud or deceit in connection with the purchase or sale of a security. The complaint further alleges that Shane engaged in unlawful insider trading by selling the stock while in possession of material non-public information about the company and the private placement. The complaint also alleges that Shane sold stock for her own account and the account of her member firm without borrowing shares and while intending to cover the sales with shares from the private placement. In addition, the complaint alleges that Shane caused her member firm to fail to make and annotate an affirmative determination that shares were available for delivery in each of the separate short sale transactions of the company. (NASD Case # CMS040208)

David Joseph Shaw (CRD #1003961, Registered Representative, Indianapolis, Indiana) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he converted $977,547 in funds belonging to public customers by transferring funds from accounts held at his member firm to accounts he controlled and used the funds for his own use and benefit without the knowledge or consent of the customers. The complaint also alleges that Shaw, by use of the instrumentalities of interstate commerce or the mails, intentionally or recklessly employed devices to defraud public customers by making untrue statements of material facts or omitting to state material facts necessary to make the statements not misleading. In addition, the complaint alleges that Shaw affixed the signatures of public customers on "authority to transfer funds" forms and submitted the forms to his member firm, authorizing the transfer of funds from the accounts of public customers to an account that he controlled, without the knowledge or consent of the customers and used the funds for his own use or benefit, and not the benefit of the customers. The complaint further alleges that Shaw failed to respond to NASD requests for information. (NASD Case #C8A040121)

Kevin Levant Teasley (CRD #2670648, Registered Principal, Great Falls, Montana) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he received $250,000 from a public customer for investment purposes and failed to use the funds as intended, thereby misusing the customer's funds without the customer's knowledge, authorization, or consent. The complaint also alleges that, in order to return a portion of the funds to the customer, Teasley caused a $100,000 cashier's check to be issued, payable to the customer. The complaint further alleges that Teasley failed to respond to NASD requests for information. (NASD Case #C3B040031)

Kevin Mark Weaver (CRD #2845934, Registered Principal, Dallas, Texas) was named as a respondent in an NASD complaint alleging that he recommended or caused the execution of transactions in the accounts of public customers without having a reasonable basis for believing the recommendations and resultant transactions were suitable for the customers in light of the customers' financial resources and needs. The complaint also alleges the recommendations were unsuitable because they resulted in an excessive number of trades and excessive account expense. In addition, the complaint alleges that Weaver executed, or caused the execution of, transactions in the accounts of public customers with intent to defraud, in that he knew, or was reckless in failing to recognize, that the trading in each of the accounts resulted in substantial commission income for him, but could not reasonably be expected to benefit the customers. NASD Bars Todd Eberhard, Former Park South Chairman and Once-Popular Television Personality

Violations Include Fraudulent Trading, Improper Settlements With Customers, Failure to Make Required Regulatory Disclosures, Providing False and Misleading Testimony

NASD barred Todd M. Eberhard, the former chairman of New York's Park South Securities, LLC, from the securities industry for federal securities fraud and other, multiple violations of NASD rules. Eberhard was known to millions as a guest analyst and commentator who appeared frequently on financial television programs on CNN, CNNfn, CNBC, Fox News Channel, and on PBS' Nightly Business Report.

The bar stems from NASD charges announced in October 2002 that Eberhard had committed securities fraud in connection with scores of mutual fund transactions. Park South was liquidated in 2003. In 2004, Eberhard pleaded guilty in federal court to mail and wire fraud, as well as conspiracy, investment adviser fraud, and obstruction of justice.

"This high-profile broker's misconduct cost his customers millions of dollars," said NASD Vice Chairman Mary L. Schapiro. "He compounded his fraudulent activities by trying to silence complaining customers and by hiding evidence of those complaints from regulators. That kind of conduct merits the most severe sanction that NASD can impose."

NASD found that during the period December 1998 through October 2001, Eberhard made, or caused to be made, scores of fraudulent and unsuitable mutual fund transactions in four customers' accounts. Eberhard intentionally or recklessly failed to disclose material information to those customers. He purchased on behalf of customers large volumes of Class B mutual fund shares that increased his commission revenue, but deprived his customers of volume "breakpoint" discounts available through Class A shares and/or the lower, shorter-term sales charges available through Class C shares. Eberhard defrauded and deceived customers by employing a pattern of short-term trading of mutual funds in order to maximize his commissions.

NASD also found that Eberhard effected numerous unauthorized transactions in customer accounts. For one customer, Eberhard created, or caused to be created, account statements that contained false valuations—the prices or net asset values of many securities were inflated to reflect a greater portfolio value than the true value of the accounts, to induce the customer to continue to maintain accounts with Eberhard.

Many customers eventually complained to Eberhard about the activity in their accounts. NASD found that between June 1997 and December 2001, Eberhard improperly settled 14 complaints made by 11 customers. Those settlements, which totaled more than $3.6 million, were made without the knowledge and consent of the brokerage firms employing Eberhard at the time—Linsco/Private Ledger Corp., Royal Alliance Associates, and Clearing Services of America, Inc.

In resolving 10 customer complaints, Eberhard included improper confidentiality agreements that effectively prohibited the customers from cooperating with NASD investigations and from disclosing the underlying facts of their complaints and the settlement terms to NASD.

In many instances, Eberhard either failed to report, or failed to report on a timely basis, customer complaints and settlements to NASD and other regulators on the securities industry registration Form U-4, as required by the federal securities laws. NASD found that when Eberhard amended his Forms U-4, he willfully failed to disclose material information and/or misrepresented material information, including the nature of customers' complaints. For example, on one Form U-4, Eberhard misrepresented the nature of a customer complaint by stating that the client was unhappy with the performance of her portfolio when, in fact, the customer had accused Eberhard of severely churning her account for commissions, repeatedly making investments that benefited Eberhard more than the customer.

Eberhard also willfully failed to disclose that he had been discharged by Royal Alliance Associates for violating investment-related statutes, regulations, rules, or industry standards of conduct. Additionally, he willfully failed to disclose that he had been named as a defendant in an investment-related, consumer-initiated civil lawsuit, which alleged that he was involved in sales practice violations.

Finally, NASD found that when Eberhard was questioned by NASD investigators, he provided false, misleading and evasive testimony.

In settling this matter, Eberhard neither admitted nor denied the charges, but consented to the entry of NASD's findings and to the sanction of a lifetime bar from the securities industry.

NASD Fines Scottrade, Inc. $250,000 for Improperly Extending Credit to Cash Account Customers

NASD fined Scottrade, Inc., of St. Louis, MO, $250,000 for improperly extending credit to customers in violation of federal securities laws and banking regulations.

NASD determined that Scottrade permitted cash account customers to purchase and sell securities in a series of trades without requiring full cash payment for each purchase, in violation of Federal Reserve Regulation T. Regulation T requires that customers trading in cash accounts make full cash payment for each separate purchase without regard to unsettled proceeds of any securities sold.

"The sanctions in this case reflect NASD's continuing concerns about securities firms improperly extending credit to cash-account customers," said NASD Vice Chairman Mary L. Schapiro. "In addition to complying with federal securities laws and NASD rules, firms must adhere to banking requirements, including Regulation T."

NASD found that from January 1, 2001, to September 28, 2001, Scottrade allowed its cash account customers to purchase and sell securities with the proceeds due from unsettled trades. The firm permitted this trading to occur in over 27,500 transactions in more than 1,400 cash accounts. Regulation T, however, requires full cash payment for the purchase of any security in a cash account without relying upon the anticipated proceeds of any unsettled trade in the account. The Federal Reserve Board staff issued guidance on this issue in January 2000, one year before Scottrade's misconduct commenced. Scottrade, nevertheless, permitted its customers to execute numerous purchase and sell transactions, on the same day, with unsettled funds well into September 2001.

In settling this matter, Scottrade neither admitted nor denied the charges, but consented to the entry of NASD's findings.

This case is the latest enforcement action brought by NASD in the area of cash account practices by firms that violate Regulation T. In March 2004, NASD brought a separate action against Ameritrade, Datek and iClearing for similar cash account practices that violated Regulation T. In that matter, NASD found that the firms permitted the trading in over 2 million transactions in over 30,000 customer cash accounts. NASD fined the firms $10 million for the violations.

NASD Panel Expels Florida Brokerage LH Ross, Orders Nearly $12 Million in Fines, Restitution; Issues First Permanent Cease and Desist Order

Violations Involve Fraudulent Activities Relating to Unregistered Self-Offerings, Obstructing NASD Investigation by Failing to Provide Financial Documents

Panel Cites "Widespread, Significant and Identifiable Customer Harm," Terms Future LH Ross Sales Solicitations "Extreme Threat to the Investing Public"

An NASD Hearing Panel has expelled Boca Raton, FL-based brokerage LH Ross for fraud and other violations related to the sales of unregistered self-offerings that the panel called "little more than a scheme to defraud investors." The panel ordered the firm to pay a $500,000 fine, more than $11 million in restitution to investors, prejudgment interest of at least $450,000, and hearing costs of more than $18,000.

The panel also imposed NASD's first-ever permanent cease-and-desist order, which replaced the temporary cease-and-desist order (TCDO) that NASD imposed in August 2004 to stop LH Ross's ongoing fraudulent and illegal sales activities. This case represents the first time NASD has used its TCDO authority, which was approved by the SEC in June 2003.

The Hearing Panel found that LH Ross brokers, acting with the intent to "deceive, manipulate or defraud investors," made material misrepresentations and failed to provide important information to investors in connection with private sales of LH Ross stock in 2003 and 2004. At least 150 investors in 27 states purchased the preferred stock. The panel also found that LH Ross invested at least one customer's funds in the firm's stock without that customer's knowledge or consent.

"In essence, LH Ross operated a boiler room," the panel's decision said. "The firm engaged in a concerted, high-pressure telephone campaign to sell unregistered securities in the form of units of convertible preferred LH Ross stock, showing little concern for the customers' investment needs or objectives. The firm employed false and deceptive means to solicit customers, who had no independent way to verify representations made by the brokers about the firm... This case involves widespread, significant and identifiable customer harm, and the panel believes that LH Ross and (its president) have retained substantial ill-gotten gains."

According to the panel's decision, LH Ross's transgressions include a pattern of failing to send the private placement memorandum to customers or sending it well after the purchase; failing to reflect the acquisition of preferred stock on customers' monthly account statements; telling customers their investment had doubled without divulging that the firm had simply doubled the price of the preferred stock in another offering; making additional material misstatements to customers who posed questions about the offering; completely ignoring many customer complaints about the offerings; and dissipating or misappropriating a significant portion of the millions of dollars raised in the self-offerings, "which appear to be little more than a scheme to defraud investors."

The panel also noted that LH Ross and Franklyn Michelin—the firm's CEO, CFO, COO, President, and Chief Compliance Officer—had knowingly hired several brokers from firms with regulatory problems, including abusive sales practices. One of those individuals, who was hired as vice president for investment banking, was awaiting sentencing for his felony conviction for conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud. The panel said Michelin knew from customer complaints he had received personally that his salesman were making false claims, but took no corrective action.

"Respondent's argument that it is not responsible for fraud committed by its registered representatives—particularly under these circumstances—is utterly specious," the panel said in its decision.

The Hearing Panel found that LH Ross failed to respond to repeated NASD requests for information and documents related to funds raised during the private placement offerings and how those funds were used. Among the information LH Ross failed to provide: the name of the escrow and/or bank account in which proceeds from the preferred stock sales were deposited; the financial institution at which the account is held; the account number; the person or persons with authority to withdraw funds from the account; the date and amount of withdrawals from the account; and to whom the withdrawals were payable.

In its decision, the panel said it “believes that Respondent’s lack of cooperation was an attempt to obstruct NASD’s investigation of this ongoing fraud.” Noting that to date, LH Ross has “offered no reasonable explanation for its complete failure to respond... the panel concludes that Respondent has refused to provide the requested information because it does not exist or contains information that is detrimental to the firm.”

In imposing the permanent cease-and-desist order prohibiting LH Ross from engaging in a wide range of activities, the panel said, “Any future attempt by LH Ross to solicit customers to invest in unregistered securities issued by the firm poses an extreme threat to the investing public.” In imposing an obligation on the firm to pay restitution of over $11 million and prejudgment interest, the panel rejected, in the absence of complete and reliable documentation, Michelin’s assertion that all of the money raised had been spent on business related activities.

LH Ross has appealed the Hearing Panel’s decision to NASD’s National Adjudicatory Council.

NASD Fines Analyst $75,000 for Circulating Rumor

NASD has censured and fined Walter P. Piecyk, Jr., of Harrison, NY, $75,000 for circulating a false and sensational rumor about RF Micro Devices, Inc., on Aug. 22, 2002.

Piecyk, a research analyst with Fulcrum Global Partners LLC in New York, circulated a negative rumor that RF Micro Devices’ largest client, Nokia Corporation, was delaying equipment orders to the company. Piecyk did not conduct a reasonable inquiry into whether there was a basis for the rumor. He circulated the rumor via instant messages and telephone calls to at least eight of Fulcrum’s institutional clients. As he circulated the rumor, Piecyk sold short a total of 3,000 shares of RF Micro Devices. Piecyk closed his short position in October 2002, earning a profit of $7,815.

RF Micro Devices’ stock price declined during the morning of August 22, 2002, by about 10 percent, due at least in part to the rumor. The company had to publicly deny the rumor in the afternoon and the market price recovered before the end of the day. Trading volume in RF Micro Devices that day was over 23 million shares, more than double the average daily volume of over 10 million shares during the preceding six months.

RF Micro Devices, Inc., of Greensboro, North Carolina, designs, develops, and manufactures proprietary radio frequency integrated circuits, primarily for wireless communications products and applications. RF Micro Devices has been listed on the NASDAQ National Market since June 1997 and has been included in the NASDAQ-100 Index. Piecyk covers wireless telecommunications companies, including Nokia, but not semiconductor manufacturers, such as RF Micro Devices, a supplier to telecommunications companies.

Piecyk’s failure to conduct a reasonable inquiry into the rumor and his circulating the rumor to his firm’s clients constituted a violation of NASD Conduct Rule 2110, which obligates members to observe high standards of commercial honor and just and equitable principles of trade. In settling this matter, Piecyk neither admitted nor denied the charges.

NASD Hearing Panel Expels Yankee Financial for Fraud, Orders Payment of More Than $3.8 Million in Restitution

Yankee President Richard Kresge Barred From Acting as Principal or Supervisor

An NASD Hearing Panel expelled Yankee Financial Group, Inc. of Melville, NY—and barred Yankee President Richard Kresge (CRD No. 729077) from associating with any NASD-registered firm as a principal or in any supervisory capacity—for engaging in fraudulent, high-pressure, boiler-room operations. The panel ordered the firm and Kresge to pay 10 customers more than $3.8 million in restitution, plus interest and costs.

The case against Kresge and Yankee was the product of NASD’s investigation into a high-pressure, boiler-room type operation of a Yankee branch office in Brooklyn, NY in the fall of 2001 and spring of 2002. The investigation resulted in permanent bars for related fraudulent conduct against 12 registered individuals employed by Yankee and two other firms involved in the fraudulent scheme.

Brokers in Yankee’s Brooklyn branch office used high-pressure sales tactics, fraudulent misrepresentations, baseless price predictions, and omissions of material facts to persuade investors to purchase shares of three highly speculative OTCBB securities: Silver Star Foods, Inc., Western Media Group Corp., and Golden Chief Resources, Inc. Yankee brokers in many instances targeted sales of these stocks to elderly persons for whom they were patently unsuitable.

The Hearing Panel held that, “Yankee and Kresge are liable for ... [the] violations by the brokers in the Brooklyn office” because they were the brokers’ employers and ultimate supervisors, with the duty to establish guidelines for brokers’ conduct and to monitor brokers’ adherence to those guidelines. The Hearing Panel concluded that Kresge’s performance of due diligence in reviewing the backgrounds of brokers hired to staff the Brooklyn branch office was “grossly insufficient.” The panel noted that his “indifference to every aspect of its operation except its financial success was reckless and failed to prevent injury to the investing public.”

NASD's surveillance of the OTCBB and investigation of market activity in the three securities identified a number of individuals who participated in the fraud who were affiliated with Yankee and two other firms, Sierra Brokerage Services of Columbus, OH and Argus Securities of Hallandale, FL. As a consequence, 12 individuals have been barred, including:

- Kenneth Gliwa (CRD No. 1087236), Yankee's former Vice President, who settled charges that he failed to supervise the Brooklyn branch office, allowed two unregistered persons to hire brokers and operate the branch office, failed to conduct any meaningful review of the three securities to evaluate their suitability for the firm's customers, and allowed the firm to operate without any written supervisory procedures;
- Gary Giordano (CRD No. 2722480), former Yankee branch office manager, who settled charges of employing fraudulent sales practices, making unsuitable recommendations and failing to supervise brokers in the Brooklyn branch office;
- Jeffrey Richardson (CRD No. 736249), Sierra's President and head trader, who settled charges that he participated in an unlawful distribution of unregistered shares, generating millions of dollars for offshore entities controlled by the two individuals who owned and operated the Yankee Brooklyn branch office;
- Lawrence Dugo (CRD No. 2555823), a Yankee broker, and Samuel Barmapov (CRD No. 4245309), an Argus broker, who settled charges they used fraudulent sales practices in recommending shares to investors;
- Joseph Ferragamo (CRD No. 2868601), one of the owners of the Yankee Brooklyn branch office; Yankee brokers Vasily Kouznetsov (a.k.a. David Anderson) (CRD No. 4163388), Eric Cennane (CRD No. 2207772) and Adam Klein (CRD No. 2686322); John Cook (CRD No. 1900910), Argus' former President; John Klukewycz (CRD No. 2477332), a former Argus branch manager; and Ilian Shteinberg (CRD No. 3208021), a former Argus broker, were all barred for failing to appear and testify in connection with NASD's investigation.

Yankee Financial Group, Inc., and Richard Kresge have appealed the Hearing Panel's decision to NASD's National Adjudicatory Council.

Banc One Securities Corporation Fined $400,000 for Supervisory Failures Relating to Late Trading

NASD Also Cites Banc One for Inaccurate Recording of Order Entry Times

NASD censured and fined Banc One Securities Corporation $400,000 for failing to implement adequate supervisory systems and written procedures designed to detect and prevent "late trading" of mutual funds, and for inaccurately recording the entry time for customer orders.

This is the largest fine imposed to date by NASD or any other regulator against a firm for supervisory failures relating to potential late trading.

"Late trading is illegal and to prevent it, firms must implement systems to guarantee that all mutual fund orders processed after the close of the market were received during normal trading hours," said NASD Vice Chairman Mary L. Schapiro. "NASD will be vigilant about sanctioning firms that fail to put adequate systems and procedures in place—regardless of whether late trading in fact occurs."

Late trading is the unlawful practice of placing mutual fund orders after the fund has calculated its daily net asset value (NAV)—typically at 4 p.m. EST—but receiving the price based upon that earlier, 4 p.m. calculation. Firms accepting mutual fund orders after the 4 p.m. NAV calculation are supposed to execute them at the following day's NAV.

Firms that permit late trades can provide select customers with an information advantage, allowing them to trade based on news that breaks after the markets close that could affect the value of the mutual fund's holdings, but which is not reflected in the NAV for that day. SEC and NASD rules prohibit late trading to ensure that all purchasers of mutual fund shares are on equal footing as to price and information on any given day. Firms executing mutual fund orders must establish and maintain supervisory systems and procedures reasonably designed to detect and prevent the occurrence of late trading.

NASD found that because of Banc One's deficient supervisory systems and procedures, from Nov. 1, 2002, through Nov. 11, 2003, customers were able to place mutual fund orders after the close of the market and still receive the current day's NAV. The firm failed to prevent its brokers from entering orders after 4 p.m. and failed to detect and prevent certain trades that were entered after 4 p.m. that received the current day's NAV. As a result, Banc One processed approximately 5,400 mutual fund orders during the relevant period after market close at the current day's NAV. For some of those orders, available evidence was inconclusive as to whether the order was received before or after 4 p.m. For others, the evidence provided indicated that the order was received after the close of the market. Those 5,400 mutual fund orders represent 1.75 percent of the approximately 306,000 non-systematic mutual fund orders handled by Banc One during the period under investigation.

Banc One also violated SEC and NASD Rules by failing to accurately record the time it received orders from customers. Often, the recorded receipt time actually reflected the time the broker entered the order or, if the broker sent the order to a trader, the time the trader entered the order. This deficiency made it impossible for NASD investigators to determine whether the recorded receipt times for thousands of mutual fund orders received by Banc One between May 2, 2003, and November 11, 2003, were accurate.

In settling with NASD, Banc One neither admitted nor denied the allegations, but consented to the entry of NASD's findings.
